Employer Feedback Analysis Report

The following are the recommendations made by the employers that are listed below:

- Curriculum needs to be more industrially relevant.
- Students should be knowledgeable about contemporary technology in their field.
- Recruiters praised students' abilities in essential subjects and advised them to develop their communication skills.

At the departmental level, the employer feedback is examined, and subsequent actions are planned to be done. Additionally, the notable recommendations are discussed in IQAC meetings, evaluated at the institutional level for every programme, and the necessary actions are then done.

Conclusion

In order to analyze where we are and to identify problems, data collection is a crucial process in every industry. By analyzing data, problems can be identified and solved, making things even better. In order to make the correct decisions, the institution solicits feedback on the curriculum from our different stakeholders.
